Note from the Board

On behalf of the Okeechobee Youth Livestock Show Board of Directors, the exhibitors, and their parents, we would like to extend our deepest gratitude to those who participated in our online sale and the add-on contributors.

Due to circumstances that left us in uncharted waters, you stood behind us and with us to ensure our exhibitors were able to complete their projects, recoup their costs, and are now able to look forward to future endeavors.

While OYLS is able to create an environment each year that allows our exhibitors to raise and exhibit their animals, most of our exhibitors rely on our annual sale to complete their project. You, our buyers and add-on contributors, are the driving force behind their success each year. Your support not only allows them the opportunity to show year after year if they so choose, but also sets many of our exhibitors up for furthering their education, technical school, or the tools needed to enter the work force post-graduation.

Thank you for your continued support,

OYLS Board of Directors

COVID-19 has forced many people to change their routines and business practices. From face masks to hand sanitizers and other protective measures, what's normal has been redefined.

This goes double for such mainstays as the annual Livestock Show and Sale showcase published by Lake Okeechobee News. Because of the mandatory shutdown of the 2020 Okeechobee Youth Livestock Show and Sale, many of the items that would normally be featured in this section were not available.

As soon as we heard about the interruption of this year's Livestock show and Sale, our teams put out word through online and in-paper promotion, social media and area e-mail campaigns seeking photos from participants. And while we were not able to secure photos from everyone, area parents and organizers rallied to help us make this keepsake publication as special as we could for over 300 area youth! Thank you to everyone who assisted in this effort! Photos and participant names appear in alphabetical order.
